A still life photograph of organic ingredients. In the center is a glass bottle of yellowish-orange liquid, likely vanilla extract, with a cork stopper and a piece of twine wrapped around the neck. To the left of the bottle is a bundle of dark, dried vanilla beans tied with twine. In the foreground, there are several wooden spoons and small bowls containing various powders and seeds, including what appears to be cacao nibs and a yellow powder. The background is dark and out of focus.
